How To Defog A Mirror?

A hot water shower will often leave you with a blurred reflection in the mirror

The hot water from your shower heats up the air around your mirror quicker than the glass in the mirror, because the glass has a specific heat capacity that is higher than air in general.

When the water from the shower touches the surface of the mirror, it cools down immediately and starts to condense.

Surface tension causes the water to form droplets and these create thousands of tiny lenses that refract the light into a homogenous grey blur.

Which bother us much!

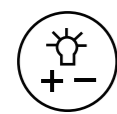

Defog/Anti-fog

Say Goodbye to Wipe the Steamed Mirror

With an electric mirror with defog function as part of the bathroom, you will no longer have to wipe mirrors after warm showers, and you won't leave streaks on them as a result. Heated mirrors will give you a fog-free bathroom mirror experience.

Installing anti-fog LED bathroom mirror is a simple and cost-effective way to make your morning preparations easier. It even makes bathroom cleaning more efficient.

Whether you're shaving in the shower or removing makeup, you'll find the mirror anti-fog function perfect for your needs.

Light Mode

3000K-6000K Colour Temperature

What color light is the best choice for your bathroom? Light bulbs labeled LED "COLD LIGHT", which have a color temperature of 5000-6000K, the space looks and feels clean;

Or light bulbs labeled LED "NATURAL LIGHT", which have a color temperature of 4500K, the most close to natural light, create a bright, stimulating atmosphere in the bathroom;

Or light bulbs labeled LED "WARM LIGHT", which have a color temperature of 3000K, which can bring your bathroom a sense of warmth and invitingness, is the ideal choice for nighttime grooming.
